

How the Rule 10b5-1
changes may impact you

The Securities and Exchange Commission recently amended Rule 10b5-1 and added new disclosure requirements for use of Rule 10b5-1 trading arrangements. This document highlights these new amendments.

Contents

Rule 10b5-1 background	2
Rule 10b5-1 changes
• New conditions for the affirmative defense	3
New disclosures	5
Form 144 EDGAR filing	6
We're here to serve you	7

Merrill Lynch, Pierce, Fenner & Smith Incorporated (also referred to as "MLPF&S" or "Merrill") makes available certain investment products sponsored, managed, distributed or provided by companies that are affiliates of Bank of America Corporation ("BoFA Corp."). MLPF&S is a registered broker-dealer, registered investment adviser, Member SIPC and a wholly owned subsidiary of BoFA Corp.

Banking products are provided by Bank of America, N.A., and affiliated banks, Members FDIC and wholly owned subsidiaries of BoFA Corp.

Investment products:

Are Not FDIC Insured	Are Not Bank Guaranteed	May Lose Value
-----------------------------	--------------------------------	-----------------------

Rule 10b5-1 background

When and why was Rule 10b5-1 adopted?

The SEC adopted Rule 10b5-1 in August 2000 to provide more clarity regarding the meaning of “manipulative and deceptive device[s] or contrivance[s]” prohibited under Section 10(b) and Rule 10b-5 with respect to trading on the basis of material nonpublic information. In addition, Rule 10b5-1(c) established an affirmative defense to liability under Section 10(b) and Rule 10b-5 for insider trading.

Why are changes to the rule being made now?

Since the adoption of Rule 10b5-1, academics, members of Congress and institutional investors have expressed concern that traders have sought to benefit from its liability protections while trading securities opportunistically on the basis of material nonpublic information. The amendments are intended to improve investor confidence in the securities markets by significantly reducing opportunities for corporate insiders to misuse Rule 10b5-1 to trade on material nonpublic information. Also, by adding the new disclosure requirements, the SEC hopes to increase transparency regarding the use of trading plans, issuers’ insider trading policies and procedures, and policies and practices on granting equity.

Who is subject to the changes, and when will they take effect?

Changes apply to directors, officers and others entering into Rule 10b5-1 plans and took effect February 27, 2023.

Rule 10b5-1 changes

New conditions for the affirmative defense

Some of the changes to the rule update the conditions that must be met for the 10b5-1 affirmative defense.

Directors and officers

Prior version of the rule Revised rule

No cooling-off period

- Mandatory cooling-off period that's the later of:
 - 90 days after the plan's adoption or modification
 - Two business days following the disclosure of financial results in periodic reports, such as Forms 10-Q and 10-K, for the fiscal quarter in which the plan was adopted (not to exceed 120 days)

No certification at plan adoption

- Statement certifying that they're:
 - Not aware of material nonpublic information about the security or issuer
 - Adopting the plan in good faith and not part of a plan or scheme to evade prohibitions of Rule 10b-5

Rule 10b5-1 changes

Persons (other than the issuer, directors and officers)

Prior version of the rule → Revised rule

No cooling-off period

- Mandatory cooling-off period of 30 days

Persons (other than the issuer)

Multiple overlapping plans allowed

- No overlapping plans except the following:
 - Sell-to-cover plans
 - Multiple broker plans treated as a “single plan”
 - Later-commencing plans

No limit on single-trade plans

- One single-trade plan during any consecutive 12-month period

No express condition that the person who entered into the Rule 10b5-1 plan “has acted in good faith with respect to the contract, instruction, or plan”

- All persons who entered into a Rule 10b5-1 plan required to act in good faith with respect to the contract, instruction or plan

New disclosures

Prior requirements

Revised requirements

No requirement for issuers to disclose the plan; optional disclosure on Form 8-K or press release

- Quarterly disclosure of plan required for directors and officers, including name and title; date of adoption, termination or modification; and number of shares to be sold for directors and officers

No insider trading policy disclosure

- Issuers required to disclose annually their insider trading policies and procedures as an exhibit to Forms 10-K and 20-F

No disclosure on Forms 4 and 5 that trades were intended to satisfy affirmative defense

- Mandatory “check the box” on Forms 4 and 5 for trades under Rule 10b5-1 plans

Gifts reported on Form 5

- Mandatory reporting of gifts on Form 4 within two business days of the transaction

Less stringent option grant policies and practices disclosure

- Issuers required to disclose policies and practices regarding the timing of awards and the release of material nonpublic information

Form 144 EDGAR filing

Will the rule changes affect the filing of Form 144?

Yes. Here are some of the ways Form 144 filings will be affected:

- As of April 13, 2023, paper filings and PDFs submitted through email will no longer be permitted.
- Affiliates, or designated filing agents, will be required to file Form 144 electronically through the Electronic Data Gathering, Analysis and Retrieval (EDGAR) system.
- The SEC recently extended the submission time for Form 144 from 5:30 p.m. to 10 p.m. Eastern.
- Unless the affiliate elects to file Form 144, advisors will have the capability to file electronically. Clients will need to provide their advisor with their filing credentials.

We're here to serve you

Bank of America has experience assisting executives with the challenges posed by holding concentrated positions in company stock. We can put you in touch with a Merrill advisor team, who can work with you to implement a Rule 10b5-1 trading plan as an essential part of your overall wealth management strategy.

For more information, contact your Bank of America representative.

Bank of America and its affiliates do not provide legal, tax or accounting advice. Clients should consult their legal and/or tax advisors before making any financial decisions.

"Bank of America" and "BofA Securities" are the marketing names used by the Global Banking and Global Markets divisions of BofA Corp. Lending, other commercial banking activities and trading in certain financial instruments are performed globally by banking affiliates of BofA Corp., including Bank of America, N.A., Member FDIC. Trading in securities and financial instruments, and strategic advisory, and other investment banking activities, are performed globally by investment banking affiliates of BofA Corp. ("Investment Banking Affiliates"), including, in the United States, BofA Securities, Inc., and Merrill Lynch Professional Clearing Corp., both of which are registered broker-dealers and Members of SIPC, and, in other jurisdictions, by locally registered entities. BofA Securities, Inc., and Merrill Lynch Professional Clearing Corp. are registered as futures commission merchants with the CFTC and are members of the NFA.

This publication is designed to provide general information about ideas and strategies. It is for discussion purposes only, since the availability and effectiveness of any strategy are dependent upon your individual facts and circumstances. Always consult with your independent attorney, tax advisor, investment manager and insurance agent for the final recommendations and before changing or implementing any financial, tax or estate planning strategy. The information and data provided in this document are derived from sources believed to be reliable, but we do not guarantee that it is accurate or complete.

Implementing a Rule 10b5-1 Trading Plan does not prohibit or prevent legal or regulatory action related to the trades. Trading plans are intended to demonstrate that the purchase or sale of a security of any issuer was not on the basis of material, nonpublic information about that security or issuer and, therefore, not in violation of section 10(b) of the Securities Exchange Act of 1934 and Rule 10(b)-5.

A Rule 10b5-1 Trading Plan does not relieve the seller from the requirements of Rule 144 under the Securities Act of 1933, as amended, which covers the sale of control or restricted stock held by an individual. Any affiliate of the issuing company and holders of restricted securities are subject to this rule. The seller remains responsible for all Rule 144 requirements, including volume limitations and Form 144 filing. Conditions for resale of restricted and control securities are separate requirements under Rule 144. However, a trading plan may be designed taking those issues into consideration.

There is no relief from the reporting requirements and short-swing profit liability under Section 16 of the Securities Exchange Act of 1934, as amended. Corporate insiders must be aware of expiring hedge transactions and other offsetting transactions. Certain transactions by an insider are subject to prompt disclosure to the SEC. Individuals who are subject to Section 16 cannot have a nonexempt purchase and a nonexempt sale or a nonexempt purchase of the issuer's stock within six months of each other. Otherwise, profits must be returned to the company. Insiders subject to Section 16 should contact company counsel prior to engaging in any transaction in company stock.

Executives who wish to buy or sell shares in their company often have limited trading opportunities. Trading "windows" may be closed when trading could potentially violate insider trading laws. But with a Rule 10b5-1 Plan in place, you may have a greater opportunity to buy or sell shares in many situations where previously you might not have been able to do so.

© 2023 Bank of America Corporation. All rights reserved. | MAP5717946 | BRO-06-23-0157 | 06/2023